1. Old style dress female portrait:

A young woman, likely of indigenous descent, with a medium complexion and long, dark brown hair, is the central figure. Her hair is styled in a braid with loose strands flowing around her shoulders. She is wearing an ornate choker necklace with bone pendants and feathers, and a layered garment comprising an orange/rust colored top with a patterned design and off-white, fringed shawl-like material draped over her shoulders and chest. The woman's expression is serious and composed, with a direct gaze. She appears to be in her late teens or early twenties, of slender build. The image presents a slightly three-quarter view of the subject, with her body angled toward the viewer, and she is positioned slightly to the left of the center of the frame. The lighting in the image is soft and diffused, highlighting her face and features. Natural, outdoor tones and colors dominate the image, with warm earth tones, subtle browns, and creams prevalent. The style suggests a moody, perhaps historical or nature-inspired portrayal. The environment appears to be an outdoor setting, possibly near a body of water or in a forested area. Important details include the natural textures in the clothing and the appearance of weathered or natural elements on the subject's skin. The perspective is slightly above the subject, providing a close-up view of her features and detailed clothing. The overall composition creates a sense of serene and powerful presence.

4. Queen warrior style dress:

A woman, likely in her twenties, is depicted in a classical, mythological style. She is of light complexion, and has long dark hair that falls to her waist. She wears a white, draped, flowing robe or tunic, adorned with gold-colored, detailed shoulder armor and a wide ornate gold belt. A gold-detailed, black Spartan helmet with black plumes sits atop her head. Her facial expression is serious and determined, and her eyes are looking directly at the viewer. She is positioned slightly angled to her right side, from the mid-thigh down to her upper chest, against the middle of the image. Her body is proportionate and sculpted, with a visible waist and firm upper arms and chest. The setting is an ancient or classical scene, with pillars and a light beige/gold background. The background architecture is suggestive of an ancient temple or forum. The lighting is soft and focused on the subject, drawing attention to the details of her clothing and armor. The colors are warm golds, beiges, and ivory whites. The overall style is highly detailed, dramatic, and reminiscent of a Renaissance or antique statue. The composition is carefully balanced, with the subject positioned for a strong visual impact. The perspective is close-up and detailed, emphasizing the subject's form and attire.
